

$$\begin{array}{c}
 \text{Diagram 1: A diamond shape with vertices at the top, bottom, left, and right. The edges are labeled } q \text{ (top-left), } r \text{ (top-right), } s \text{ (bottom-right), and } p \text{ (bottom-left). A vertical line segment connects the top and bottom vertices and is labeled } t \text{ on its right side. A horizontal line segment enters the left vertex from the left, labeled } a\alpha, \text{ and another horizontal line segment exits the right vertex to the right, labeled } a'\alpha'. \\
 \\
 \text{Diagram 2: A diamond shape with vertices at the top, bottom, left, and right. The edges are labeled } q \text{ (top-left), } r \text{ (top-right), } s \text{ (bottom-right), and } p \text{ (bottom-left). A vertical line segment connects the top and bottom vertices and is labeled } t \text{ on its right side. A horizontal line segment connects the left and right vertices and is labeled } a \text{ on its right side. A horizontal line segment enters the left vertex from the left, labeled } a\alpha, \text{ and another horizontal line segment exits the right vertex to the right, labeled } a'\alpha'.
 \end{array}$$